

Connect & Collaborate: 2020-2021

Welcome to the Weirdest School Year...Ever?

Across the state, Wyoming schools are back in session. School libraries and librarians have been affected in many ways, including:

- Adjusting class schedules and methods of delivering instruction and library services
- Creating and implementing COVID protocol to keep themselves and their students healthy
- Curating and sharing online resources, starting new collections of e-books, and taking advantage of free resources offered by companies and individuals for distance learning
- Learning and using new technologies on the fly

In this strange and uncertain year, we want to help you find an anchor. SLIG is a group of school library professionals around the state of Wyoming, and we can work together to support one another.

Meet your SLIG Co-Chairs

Melissa Snider

This is my 11th year as an elementary school librarian for the Teton County School District in Jackson, WY. I'm currently serving the first dual-language K-5 school in the state of Wyoming, Munger Mountain Elementary. I love to procrastinate, bake, hike, and READ (duh). Follow our library on Instagram:

Megan Bietz

I've been in education for 15 years and this my 11th year as a school librarian in Campbell County School District. I'm the librarian at Prairie Wind and Paintbrush Elementaries. I've been the district library coordinator for three years.

I love to travel and read. Follow me @Wyo_LibraryLady
